Conclusion:

This investigation was set up to return to the client's home due to the original investigation being cut short due to inclement weather conditions at the location on 6/07/08. At this investigation we were able to fully deploy our equipment and try and gather as much data as to verify the client's claims of activity within the home. After a thorough review of all of the collected data, we were unable to collect any evidence to support the existence of paranormal activity within the client's home. However, we will be remaining in contact with this client to be able to collect further data for the case file as well as to help the family if the reported activity returns.
